

LOWDEN FLATLY REFUSES SECOND PLACE ON TICKET

SERVICE TO AGRICULTURE IS PARAMOUNT

Thinks He Can do More Good for Country in Present Activity

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, June 9.—Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois and mentioned for the republican vice presidential nomination at the Cleveland convention this week, issued a statement here yesterday asserting he must adhere to his resolution "not to accept the nomination even if it were tendered to me."

"I have given careful consideration to the question of where my duty lies and I have been forced to the conclusion, that I can be of more service to the country through activities in which I am now engaged than I could be as vice president," said Mr. Lowden.

He said that since retirement from public office, he had become interested in farmer organizations, and was convinced that agriculture must be organized if it is to go forward successfully.

"I am giving a great deal of time to these organizations and if I continue to do so I am assured by those competent to speak that I shall be rendering a real service to the agricultural interests and to the country as a whole," he said.

"If I were to step aside now, my associates in at least two of the organizations of which I am the head believe that it would seriously cripple the work of those organizations.

"I appreciate the high honor my friends would confer upon me and it is hard to disappoint them, but I must."

The former governor is president of the Holstein Breeders Association and the American Dairy Federation.

Arthur Sears Henning, political writer for the Chicago Tribune, reports the situation following Ex-Gov. Lowden's refusal to accept the nomination for the vice presidency as follows:

The elimination of Frank O. Lowden by himself from consideration for the nomination for vice president upset all political calculations today and left the Republican leaders "up in the air" for a solution of the only problem left in the national convention.

"If not Lowden, who?" every one is asking tonight and echo answers: "Who?"

The managers, including John T. Adams, the retiring national chairman, and William M. Butler, the incoming chairman and Coolidge campaign director, assembled in conference.

First Meeting New Gyro Club was Held Here Saturday Night

The newly formed Gyro Club of Dixon held a fine meeting Saturday evening at the Nachusa Tavern, at which time the officers of the local club were installed and 25 local young business men were made members of the International Gyro Club. A banquet was served to about 100 Gyros, there being representatives from Davenport and Clinton, Iowa; Sterling, Chicago, Cleveland, Madison and Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The charter for the local organization was presented by the International Secretary Ed L. Kagy. The Sterling Gyro Club had charge of the installation of the Dixon officers who were as follows:

Spirited talks were made by International Secretary Ed Kagy and other prominent members of the club.

District Number 2, in which they had stress upon ways that the club would be of great help to the city by trying to advance it and cooperate with the other clubs of the city and especially the Chamber of Commerce in their work of bettering the city of Dixon and community.

Supervisors Convened for June Business Meet

The board of supervisors convened this afternoon in their regular June sessions. The several committees are in session preparing their reports to be submitted at this session. The board convened at 1:30 and after the reading of a list of bills against the county, adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Commander J. A. Snyder and Past Commander Sherwood Dixon spent Saturday and Sunday in Bloomington, attending the annual meeting of the commanders and adjutants of the Illinois department of the American Legion.

Keep Cool and Keep Coolidge is Vermont's Slogan

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Cleveland, Ohio, June 9.—Dressed in brown smocks, such as Calvin Coolidge wore on the farm when a boy, members of the Vermont delegation have arranged to stage a demonstration in the republican national convention, Thursday, following the nomination of Coolidge.

The Vermont delegates will parade the convention hall, carrying canes made of wood cut on the Coolidge farm near Plymouth, Vermont, and wearing the brown smocks with the words "Coolidge Home Town Club" painted on the back. Twelve hundred of the canes were brought to Cleveland today by the Vermont delegates.

"Keep cool and keep Coolidge," sung to a rollicking tune, will be the song of the delegates from the President's home state. They hope to make it the official song of the convention.

The refrain to the song is: "Keep cool and keep Coolidge is the slogan of today."

"Keep cool and keep Coolidge for the good U. S. A.,

"A lot of politicians cannot do a thing but knock,

"But Calvin Coolidge is a man of action and not talk,

"So just keep cool and keep Coolidge in the White House four years more.

"We have a chance to do it in this year of twenty-four.

"He's been tried, he's never wanting; he is giving of his best;

"Keep cool and keep Coolidge is our country's mighty test."

The Coolidge campaign song has been printed on thousands of fans to be distributed. The fans can be folded so as to make small megaphones.

Ten stalwart delegates from Plymouth, the President's home town, have formed a glee club which will officially introduce the song to the convention.

The Vermont delegates also brought a gavel made of wood cut from the Coolidge farm which will be presented to John T. Adams with which to call the convention to order, Tuesday.

THIRD MEMBER OF NEGRO GANG WHO KILLED GEO. BUSH IN '18 IS BELIEVED UNDER ARREST NOW

Tip Furnished by Evening Telegraph Brings Suspect's Arrest

Hampton "Curley" Williams, alias Wilson, colored, is under arrest and in custody at Hutchinson, Kas., awaiting the arrival of officers from Dixon to bring him back to this city on a charge of murder.

A telegram from Sheriff Jesse Langford received at noon today stated that Williams had been arrested and was being held in the county jail. Sheriff Risley was notified in the telegram to bring requisition papers. The Hutchinson sheriff also added that he believed that the man held is the one wanted here for the murder of George Bush, also colored, in the railroad yards at Nelson on the night of December 6, 1918.

Williams arrest and detention came about through an item which appeared in a Chicago daily two weeks ago, and which was noted by a Dixon Telegraph staff man. The clipping, under a Hutchinson date line, told of the testimony before the district court at that place of one Curley Williams in a bootlegging case. Williams testified against another party who had been arrested on a bootlegging charge in his testimony told of ordering liquor by telephone, calling for a chicken when he wanted one gallon, or a dozen eggs when more than a gallon was wanted.

A letter was sent to the chief of police by The Telegraph at Hutchinson at once, but this failed to bring a reply and last week the matter was taken up with Sheriff Jesse Langford at Hutchinson. Thursday Sheriff Risley received word stating that there were three negroes in Hutchinson, all using the name of "Curley" Williams and asking for a complete description. This was furnished by Walter Lichliter, turnkey and deputy under former Sheriff Frank Schoenholz, who was acquainted with Wilson, which was immediately dispatched to Sheriff Langford, with the result that the suspected man is under arrest.

Sheriff Elliott C. Risley was in Springfield today, where he went for requisition papers for M. A. Judd, alleged back check writer now in custody at Centerville, Iowa, and efforts were being made to locate the sheriff at the office of Governor Len Small at a late hour this afternoon. He will probably return to Dixon before requisition papers can be secured, and will start for Hutchinson as soon as possible.

R. L. Johnson and Ira Lucas, both colored, arrested in connection with the Bush murder are now serving sentences in the state penitentiary at Joliet. The pair were sentenced to be hanged, but the sentence was commuted and they were sentenced to life.

Anti-Klan Plank in G. O. P. Platform Fought

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Cleveland, O. June 9.—Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans of the Ku Klux Klan, on his arrival from Atlanta today, came out with a declaration for Senator James E. Watson of Indiana as the Klan's candidate for vice president.

Senator Watson immediately repudiated the statement issued by the Imperial wizard. "I don't belong to the Ku Klux Klan," the senator said. "If they have issued a statement naming me, they have done it for the expressed purpose of injuring me."

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Cleveland, June 9.—Active opposition to an anti-Klan plank in the republican platform by the Klan was presaged today by the announcement that Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans, of Atlanta, would arrive here today for conference with leaders.

Prominent Klansmen, quartered at two hotels, had several informal conferences.

The Indiana delegation particularly is interested in the Klan situation because of conditions back home.

CARRIED BOOZE TO JAIL OFFICE CHARGES SHERIFF

As Result Herbert Moeller Joins Brother in Cell at Bastile

Information charging Herbert Moeller with transportation and possession of intoxicating liquor was filed in the county court this morning by State Attorney Mark C. Keller. Bonds were fixed in the sum of $500 and at noon, Moeller's attorney, H. A. Brooks, was arranging for the arrest of the defendant being held at the county jail.

Moeller is alleged to have gone to the county jail at 12 o'clock yesterday noon and demanded to see his brother, George, who is serving a term for violation of the prohibition laws. In the jail office, Chief Deputy William Rose, is alleged to have discovered a quart bottle of Moeller's "hip." Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber and Officer John Bohmstedt called at the jail about that time and it required the combined efforts of the three men to overpower Moeller. He was locked up until this morning.

Fred Hatch was fined $10 and costs in police court yesterday afternoon for speeding. L. E. Donahue was fined $2 and costs for disturbing the peace and F. B. Behrends $3 and costs for disorderly conduct. A. Swanson paid a fine of $10 and costs this morning for being intoxicated.

On the 1st of July, 1873, Mr. Dodge was united in marriage to Miss Hattie E. Davis, of Dixon. She is a member of the Methodist church, while Mr. Dodge's membership relations were with the Masonic fraternity and the Grand Army of the Republic. He had attained high rank in the former and had been honored with many offices in different branches of the order, being past High Priest of the chapter and past Commandant of the Grand Army of the Republic. He also attained the thirty-second degree of the Scottish rite in the Freeport consistory and crossed the sands of the desert with the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. His political endorsement was given to the republican party. He had lived to see the fulfillment of the hopes of his youth and early manhood. There have been no spectacular phases in his life history, but there are various elements worthy of emulation. To know one's duty and do it, to deal faithfully and honorably with one's fellowmen, this was the life of an honorable man. Moreover, his record proved conclusively that success and an untarnished name may be won simultaneously.

Extradition of Judd Asked by Lee Sheriff

Sheriff E. C. Risley left early this morning for Springfield to secure the signature of Governor Len Small to requisition papers to bring back to Dixon M. A. Judd, who is wanted for passing worthless checks here. The sheriff is making all possible haste and will go direct to Des Moines to secure the signature of the governor of Iowa to extradition papers, then proceeding to Centerville, where Judd is being held. Word last night from the sheriff at Centerville brought the information that Judd is instituting habeas corpus proceedings in an effort to prevent the Lee county sheriff from bringing him back to Dixon.

New York Woman Tries Illinois' Woman's Game

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Little Valley, N. Y., June 9.—A woman carrying a small infant in one arm and flourishing a revolver with the other, helped hold up a restaurant at South Dayton. Accompanied by two men, the woman backed waitresses and patrons into a corner. The trio rifled the cash register and escaped in an automobile.

The fire department made a run to the corner of North Jefferson avenue and East McKinney street at 12:45 today, to extinguish what was reported to be a chimney burning out. Upon their arrival they were unable to find any sign of a blaze.

SAMUEL S. DODGE DIXON BANKER, IS CALLED SATURDAY

Well Known Resident of the City Died at Dixon Public Hospital

Samuel S. Dodge, vice-president of the Dixon National bank and pioneer Dixon business man, passed away Saturday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock at the Dixon public hospital, where he had been taken only a short time before. Death ended suffering of some duration. Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 from the Methodist church, Rev. Aubrey Shannon Moore officiating. The remains will be taken to Astoria, Ill., where they will be placed in the mausoleum receiving vault, pending the completion of the mausoleum in Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Dodge had lived a retired life in Dixon for some time, but for many years was a prominent representative of mercantile interests in this city, where he took up his abode in 1868. He was then a young man, his birth having occurred in Ohio, Dec. 2, 1841, his parents being Almon and Sarah (Baldwin) Dodge. In the year 1844 they removed westward to Illinois settling at Roscoe. The father was a son of Seymour Dodge, who was born in New York but went to Ohio at an early date. After his arrival in Illinois, Almon Dodge carried on general agricultural pursuits and both he and his wife spent their last days at Roscoe.

Wounded in Civil War.

Reared in his father's home, S. S. Dodge pursued his education in the schools of Roscoe, passing through consecutive grades until he completed the high school course there. He was but nineteen years of age at the time of the outbreak of the Civil war. Soon after hostilities began he offered his services to the government enlisting as a member of Company L, Eighth Illinois Cavalry. In the spring of 1862 he was wounded near Richmond and his injuries were so severe that he was honorably discharged and returned to his home.

When he had sufficiently recovered, Mr. Dodge went to Rockford, Ill., and there learned the jeweler's trade which he followed until 1868. He then came to Dixon and opened a jewelry store, of which he was the proprietor for a third of a century. Throughout the entire period he ranked as one of the leading enterprising merchants of the city. Ever recognizing the fact that honesty is the best policy, he never deviated from a course which his judgment sanctioned as right between himself and his fellowmen and the integrity of his business methods was never questioned. As he prospered he extended his efforts in other fields, becoming one of the stockholders and directors of the Dixon National Bank many years ago, while for the past eight years or more he has been vice president, succeeding to that office upon the death of Mr. Cummings.

Was Active Mason.

On the 1st of July, 1873, Mr. Dodge was united in marriage to Miss Hattie E. Davis, of Dixon. She is a member of the Methodist church, while Mr. Dodge's membership relations were with the Masonic fraternity and the Grand Army of the Republic. He had attained high rank in the former and had been honored with many offices in different branches of the order, being past High Priest of the chapter and past Commandant of the Grand Army of the Republic. "Made in Dixon" Display at Dixon Chamber Commerce

The first of a series of "Made in Dixon" displays, which will be shown during the summer months in the Chamber of Commerce display window was made this morning. The display is that of the Reynolds Wire Company which is being shown this week. The crude product to the finish brands are shown and make a very attractive display. A mechanical device, operated electrically is attracting great deal of attention. All of the brands of wire made by the company are shown, together with the various sizes of wire and the exhibit gives some idea of the process used in turning out the finished product.

The series will continue through until September, one week being devoted to each Dixon industry. A history of the industry will also appear with each display. The Reynolds Wire Company exhibit will continue through the remainder of the week and will give way to another next week.

NOTES TAKEN BY YOUNG SLAYERS PROVE SANITY?

Crowe Thinks He Will Be Able to Refute Insanity Plea

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, June 6.—Notes taken by Richard Loeb while Nathan Leopold's confession of the murder of Robert Franks was being read to him, and notes by Leopold, while Loeb's confession was being read, in turn, are being guarded zealously by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, it being his contention that the notes, as well as clipping the state's "perfect hanging case," against both boys, would serve in a court to prove them both sane.

The notes were made, it was revealed, when Mr. Crowe directed that the confession of each youth be read to the other, and each objected to certain statements. Each was given a pad of paper and Loeb noted numbered exceptions to Leopold's confession as read by the stenographer who had taken it down, while Leopold noted fragmentary exceptions and lacked cohesion, and many were just words.

Mr. Crowe announced last night the state was ready for trial. The boys will be arraigned Wednesday and he will try to have the trial date set for July 15, the soonest possible under criminal court procedure.

The youths spent yesterday listening to entertainment and religious services at the jail.

FLOWER—
In a golden hour
cast to earth a seed.
There came a flower.
The people said, a weed.

o and fro they went Through my garden-bower,
nd muttering discontent
Cursed me and my flower.

hen it grew so tall
It wore a crown of light,
ut thieves from o'er the wall
Stole the seed by night;

owed it far and wide
By every town and tower,
ill all the people cried,
"Splendid is the flower."

Read my little fable:
He that runs may read.
He can raise the flowers now.
For all have got the seed.

and some are pretty enough,
And some are poor, indeed;
and now again the people
Call it but a weed.

—Alfred Tennyson.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Wipe With Flannel.

It is a good plan to wipe a polished floor with dry flannel once or twice a week if you wish to retain a high polish.

Washing Colored Clothes.

The water in which colored cottons are washed should be merely warm, never hot.

Should Be Dampened.

Clothes may be ironed much more easily when they have been dampened

for several hours.

Absorb Odors Rapidly.

Chocolate, coffee, cocoa, flour, butter and milk are among the foods that absorb odors rapidly and that should be kept in closed containers.

Save Bacon Fat.

The fat from bacon, ham and sau-ages should always be saved and used to fry potatoes in.

To Roast Meat.

When roasting meat expose it to a high temperature for the first half hour, then reduce the heat.

Remove Skin.

Before cooking mutton remove the thin skin that comes next to the fat

as this is what gives the strong disagreeable flavor.

Efficient Mattress.

It is a good plan to have a mattress made in two parts, one a square and the other an oblong. These can be shifted from time to time so that the wear is evenly distributed.

Revives Color.

In washing blue flannel the color

may be revived by acetic acid or vinegar. Use it in the rinsing water.

Bachelor of Laws and Master of Laws

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Anderson, daughter Josephine and Sidney Eichler, of this city, attend the Commencement Exercises of the Kent College of Law, Chicago, Thursday night, June 5th, at which time Dorman and Charles Anderson received degrees. Mrs. Anderson and Josephine remained over the week-end in the city.

Charles Anderson graduated and received the Degree of Bachelor of Laws and his brother, Dorman, received the Degree of Master of Laws at the Commencement at Kent College, June 5th, Dorman having been admitted to the bar last year and taking the post graduate course during the past year.

ROCK FALLS HIGH PICNICS AT LOWELL PARK—

Students and faculty of the Rock Falls township high school made up a merry party that motored to Lowell Park Friday morning and spent the day, enjoying a delightful outing.

Outdoor sports, boat rides on the river, and the amusements of the park afforded plenty of entertainment for the picnickers. Large baskets of good things galore were taken along and a bountiful dinner was a feature of the day.

The annual picnic is the closing event of the school year, and one look forward to by students and faculty.
Some of the crowd remained in Dixon for the theatre in the evening, while the others returned home, tired, but happy.

Girl Scouts May Send in Applications

The Girl Scouts who have not yet made application to attend the Girl Scout Camp, are urged to place their applications at once. There is still time, but the application should be made as soon as possible. All the girls are earning at least a part of the money with which to defray their expenses at camp. If the citizens can in any way assist the girls in earning this money the Scouts and Scout leaders will be very grateful.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY CHRISTIAN CHURCH—

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Christian church will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at the church. As this is the last meeting of the year, members are requested to have their mite boxes with them, and it is also requested that all dues be paid. The program of the afternoon will be provided by Mrs. Stauffer's class of girls in the form of a pageant.

This certainly is a hearty breakfast;

ENTERTAINED WITH PICNIC AT PINES AND BLACK HAWK STATUE—

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hicks, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gehant entertained friends from West Brooklyn with a picnic dinner at the Pines and at Black Hawk statue at Oregon Sunday.

MEET TUESDAY— GRACE W. M. S. TO

The Women's Missionary Society of Grace Evangelical church will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at the church. Mrs. Frost, Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. White will be the hostesses for the afternoon.

TO VISIT IN OHIO, ILL. AND MINNEAPOLIS—

Misses Lydia Rickert and Alameda Gould are leaving this evening for Ohio, Ill., to spend a few days with Miss Rickert's mother, before leaving for Minneapolis, Minn., where they will visit with friends and relatives.

AID SOCIETY TO MEET WEDNESDAY—

The Kingdom-Mt. Union Aid Society will hold an all-day meeting at the Community House Wednesday, June 11, to which all members are urged to be present.

SPENT WEEK-END WITH PARENTS HERE—

Mrs. Curtis E. Rice of Chicago, spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Elliott of this city.

C. C. CIRCLE TO MEET FRIDAY—

The members of the C. C. Circle will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Ward Hall, 521
McKinney street, with Mrs. Herbert Hoon as assistant hostess.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY—

The members of the Missionary Society of the Baptist church will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the church.

Called Sunday Night

Andrew P. Nelson, a resident of Dixon for more than a score of years, passed away at his home, 821 Jackson avenue last evening at 9:30, death resulting from apoplexy with which he had been afflicted for several weeks. Mr. Nelson was born in Holbach, Denmark, Oct. 14, 1864 and had been a resident of Dixon for almost 21 years.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home, Wednesday morning at 9:30. Rev. Kenneth Hurst, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church officiating. Interment will be made in the Franklin Grove cemetery.

BLACK DINNER FROCK

This black rep coat, lined with copper colored silk and trimmed with black braid on white is a practical addition to the June bride's trousseau, since it may be worn for practically any occasion. The wide scarf with the braided ends makes a fur piece unnecessary.

OBITUARY

(Contributed)

Martin Luther Cooper was born
Jan. 16, 1847 and passed away June 6, 1924, aged 77 years, six months and 20 days. From his birth until a few years ago his home was on Oak Ridge in Ogle county. Since then he had made his home with his son, Lester in Dixon.

Mr. Cooper enlisted in the U. S.
Army in 1864, a member of Co. F., 34th Illinois Infantry, serving as a fifer until the close of the war. In 1867 he was married to Miss Elora
Fox, who passed away Jan. 31, 1917.
To this union were born seven children, six of whom survive: Mrs. Alta Schryver of near Oregon, Mrs. Bernice Guyann of Pennsylvania Corners, Mrs. Grace Mumma, William and Lester of Dixon and Roscoe of Grand Detour. A daughter, Bessie, passed away in 1892 at the age of two years.

Fourteen grandchildren, four great grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Ellen Davis of Grand Detour also mourn his passing. Four brothers and three sisters preceded him to the Great Beyond: William, Frank,
James, Wesley, Jane Galinda and Martha.

Mr. Cooper was a member of the Brethren church, living a quiet Christian life for many years.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the home of his son, Lester, on Jackson ave., and at the Christian church in Grand Detour.

Smith Would Allow States to Regulate Manufacture of Beer

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, June 9.—Revision of the Volstead Act to allow states so disposed to legalize the sale of light wines and beers is urged by Governor A. E. Smith, in the first public statement on the subject issued since he became a candidate for the democratic nomination for President.
Governor Smith also said he believed the Klan to be "contrary to the principles upon which this country was founded."

FORCE DOESN'T CHANGE OPINIONS.

Analysis of the recent elections in France, in which communists increased their membership in the chamber of deputies from 11 to 29, does not indicate that Russian propaganda is really undermining French republicanism. The larger communist vote is rather a reply to the refusal of the Poincare government to allow the communists free speech.

More than half the communist deputies were elected in the department of the Seine, which includes Paris. Nine were elected in the manufacturing district north of Paris, and it is notable that this is the district in which the Poincare government has been particularly severe in its attempts to interfere with communist meetings and in its measures against communist workmen, many of whom refused to pay their taxes on the ground that the assessments were unjust. Many times the police raided the homes of communists, throwing their furniture out into the streets.

Governmental action was solely against the communists. Others who denounced the government and refused to pay taxes were unmolested. This caused the communists to decide that they were being persecuted for their opinions. Their opposition to the government was increased and they got the sympathy and votes of their neighbors.

Force does not change opinions, it rather tends to strengthen them. Communism has not worked in Russia, it will not work in France, and it can secure little opportunity to work in any country where its virtues and defects can be analyzed in free debate. When such debate is prevented, its propaganda at once becomes powerful. The American Revolution was brought about because a stubborn government tried to coerce a self-respecting self-reliant people.

HOOKY FROM COLLEGE.

"Rush to colleges is ebbing" says a headline. It was one of the queer reactions of the war, the overnight sky-rocketing of college attendance. Now things are getting back to normal and colleges are near pre-war business.

The same thing will happen to the post-war epidemic of intense interest in history, science and other forms of knowledge. War stimulates brains, whets the mob's intellectual appetite. But thinking is a dull business at best, and pleasure is forever calling enticingly. Each mental spurt, though, carries humanity one step higher up the ladder of average intelligence.

CAPEWARD.

Close to 4000 million dollars of American money are now invested in South and Central America.

Of this, 3150 millions are in industries, the rest in government securities.

It means that tremendous Latin-American trade is in store for America. Foreign trade follows loans. Business is done 95 per cent on credit—internationally, the same as at home.

WHAT BRINGS SUCCESS?

The Chinese dancer, Mei Ran-Tan, is paid $15,000 a week, yet he's only 24. Here's phenomenal success. Yet we doubt that he rose by exceptionally hard work, saving his pennies or not watching the clock.

No, the hokum rules don't hold for Mei Ran-Tan.

His success is due to a special gift.

And we have a sneaking notion this explains most American business successes, regardless of what they tell the interviewers. They have the gift of money-making, which is born in a man and cannot be acquired any more than top-notch dancing.

DANCER.

Pavlova's salary for dancing is $10,000 a week, it's disclosed in a lawsuit.

She's overtaking the world's highest paid dancer—Mei Ran-Tan, the Chinaman. He gets $2500 a night—and in a country where unskilled labor is paid about 18 cents a day.

Mei Ran-Tan is only 24. He dances masquerading as a woman. Spurns all offers to show in America. Critics claim he is the finest dancer in history. We'd always credited Chinese with being very wise. But it seems they, too, pay higher for educated feet than educated heads.

COURAGE.

The first New York movie theater of opera house size and with a complete orchestra instead of a lone piano player or electric organ was the Mark Strand. That took courage, for other managers predicted failure.

The Mark Strand is still doing business with 53 orchestra men, and has a record of 60 million paid admissions.

This illustrates the value of other people's opinions.

FORCED PLANTS.

Man can't cheat nature, but he never gives up trying. Flowers and vegetables are being experimentally "forced" by X-raying seeds and using electric lights as a substitute sunshine.

Successful, is the claim. But something will be lost—in fragrance of the flowers and in flavor or nutrition of the vegetables. The artificial is always inferior to the natural way.

LIGHTNING.

Lightning causes only 12 million dollars of fire losses a year. So estimates the Weather Bureau. For some mysterious reason, Illinois has more losses than any other state.

Man-caused fires destroy about 50 times as much property as lightning. Yet all people fear lightning. And few fear matches, cigarette stubs and other causes of fires. Teach your children that there is more danger in a match than in lightning bolt.

JOKERS.

Texas Rangers will send a "spirited mustang" to the Prince of Wales. The gift is Tejana, a fiery beast worthy of the spurs of Smoky and Cotton.

The prince has become an expert at getting thrown on his head, but he'll probably learn something about horseflesh shortly. The prancers from our southwest require more glue on the saddle than stable-bred English nags. Still, maybe he's been practicing for Tejana without knowing it.

A fairy climber up the vine to their window sill

Nancy and Nick, my dears, were Twins.

One night when the Twins were asleep, a fairy climbed up the vine to their window-sill.

He did a little dance, and he did a little prance and then he turned a somersault. Then he blew out his cheeks until they looked like apples, and whistled.

Nancy and Nick woke up like a shot and sat up in bed and rubbed their eyes.

"Did you hear something?" whispered Nancy.

"Yes, did you?" asked Nick.

Then suddenly he began to laugh, and Nancy, looking where he looked, began to laugh, too. And they laughed and laughed and laughed, both of them. And if you had been there, you'd have laughed too.

For the little fairyman was making the funniest faces at them and jumping around like a clown.

Finally he gave a spring and landed right on the bedspread where Nick's knees made a mountain.

"Hello!" he cried. "Are you wide awake enough to listen to what I'm going to tell you?"

"Yes," laughed Nancy. "I feel as though I never, never could be sleepy again."

"Or me either," said Nick. "Who are you?"

"I'm Johnny Jump Up," answered the funny little creature. "I'm Johnny Jump Up, the Garden Fairy. The Fairy Queen sent me."

"What did you come for?" asked Nick.

"To get you and you," said Johnny Jump Up, pointing to Nick and then to Nancy.

"All right, we'll go right away," cried Nick throwing the covers back and jumping out of bed.

"Hey, there! Hold on," said the fairy. "You can't go that way. You're too big and you're not dressed or anything."

"Well it won't take long to put our clothes on," said Nancy. "And as for being big, I guess we've been in the garden lots of times just as big as we are now."

"But not where I'm going to take you," said Johnny Jump Up mysteriously. "But don't worry! That's easily fixed. There! I see you are all ready but your shoes."

Nick was reaching for his little brown leather shoes with laces, when Johnny Jump Up stopped him. "Oh, don't do that. Don't put on old shoes when you can get new," he cried. "See here!" And he pulled out of his pockets two pairs of the tiniest green shoes you ever looked at.

"Oh, ho! Are those for us?" exclaimed Nick. "Why we couldn't get them on the ends of our little fingers."

"Oh, yes you could. An elephant could," cried the fairy. "These are magic and stretch and shrink worse than woolens in a wash tub. Put them on and see what happens."

So Nancy put on one pair and Nick put on the other pair and behold—they fitted marvelously.

But wait until you hear what happened. Instead of the tiny shoes stretching to fit the Twins, the minute the children touched them, they shrank until they fitted the shoes.

"Now we're ready to start," shouted Johnny Jump Up. "Jump up on the window-sill, my dears and we'll be off. The timewise is waiting."

mistake in frittering away his emotions to those other women, whom he knows absolutely will only fascinate him for a time. He should save that love that he has made a byword as does a woman save her devotion, her trust, her faith, her loyalty for the man to whom she at last gives herself entirely.

You will trust me, will you not, dear? For I need perfect faith and perfect trust to keep me faithful and trustworthy.

There are men who believe that jealousy and doubt are always a part of a great love, but I am not that kind. The woman who loves me must believe in me entirely, for I know that I will come as nearly as I can to loving up to her ideals, good or bad.

Ruth darling, as I write this, I see you coming toward me. I reach out my arms to you across the miles of space. I feel your soft body within these arms, crushing itself close, close to mine. I see your eyes opening to let me see the love that lies within them. I am dreaming of the greatest joy I have ever known.

Ruth, do not disappoint me. I could not bear it. I want you so. I am coming to get you and take you and keep you mine—mine, for ever and ever.

STRAIGHT DOPE BENNY ON THE RADIO

Black Gold has been going through racing fields this spring like a pair of loaded dice through a yokel's bank roll.

The triple-derby winner was born of poor but misguided parents and is as devoid of breeding as a wet toupee is of dandruff.

THE ROUGHNECK COLT WEARS UNARISTOCRATIC IRON SHOES, EATS PLEBEIAN OATS AND SLUMBERS IN BOURGEOIS STRAW.

The fact that he was foaled in the squalor of the tenements hasn't kept him down any more than Walter Johnson's fast ball has handicapped Washington.

Black Gold came galloping into the world without a pedigree but with plenty of speed, and who ever heard of a bookie paying off on pedigrees?

An aristocratic background may be all right but it will get you nowhere quick if you are lacking in uncouth ambition and common kitchen stove ability.

I don't suppose they built monuments to Abe Lincoln simply on account of his familiarity with salad forks and the swell way he wore his Prince Albert.

The Hohenzollern boys of Germany vaded through sweet aristocracy up to their wide imperial ears every morning, and now look at them!

YOU'LL PROBABLY FIND 'EM UNDER THE BED STILL HIDING.

In the name of life they don't ask you where you came from but where you are going and how fast you can make it.

Black Gold is more than just a four-legged horse; he's a symbol of the world's attitude toward success.

Which is this: "Get there first and the berries are yours."

NEW PNEUMONIA SERUM

Boston—An improved serum, which may reduce the death rate for pneumonia by 25 or 50 per cent, was described by Dr. Lloyd D. Felton, assistant professor or preventive medicine at the Harvard Medical School, in a address before the New England Health Institute recently.

There are about 9000 farm co-operatives in this country.

"To Seem Poor Is Never to Rise"

That was the wise judgment of Dr. Oliver Goldsmith. And it's very true. You see, successful men know that success is not so difficult but that any live man may prosper. Hence if you seem poor they decide that you lack ability—and that of course brands you as hopeless. Successful men want around them men who already know how to win.

Nowadays good clothes cost little. Nobody is compelled to seem poor or to look poor. To look successful is the first step toward victory, and to look successful requires only a new suit.

ence after the fatal word came from Lowden, but got nowhere and parted with each one groping for an inspiration.

Nobody in Sight Now

As matters stand tonight there is a multitude of proposed candidates under discussion with none of them commanding the support of more than a corporal's guard in the convention. With Lowden, for whom the old guard was a unit, eliminated, the old guard itself is at sea, and neither Coolidge new bloods, the old crowd nor any other group classing as a power in the convention has a candidate of promise.

It is not unlikely that this situation will obtain for several days, possibly right up to Thursday when the convention will be ready to proceed to the nomination of the candidate for vice president.

But while you seek in vain to discover whom the leaders in any impressive number are for you encounter little difficulty in finding out whom they are not for.

Against Hoover and Dawes

Butler and others high in the Coolidge councils are clearly not in favor of the nomination of either Charles G. Dawes or Herbert Hoover. They are afraid the selection of Dawes would place the party on the defensive in a number of particulars. Dawes would be assailed as one of the group of international financiers headed by J. P. Morgan, represented as promoting the Dawes reparations settlement, as an opening wedge to the cancellation of world war debts all around. He also would be branded as the foe of union labor.

The choice of Hoover would be interpreted by Senator Johnson, (Cal.) and his followers as gratuitous insult, and would be likely to cost the ticket the California electoral vote, as the wounding of Mr. Johnson's feeling in 1916 cost Mr. Hughes the California vote and the presidency.

Coolidge's Friends Talk

While it is reiterated hourly that the President is keeping hands off the vice presidential contest as religiously as did Roosevelt under parallel circumstances in 1904, the friends of Mr. Coolidge here are no more than human, and being such are betraying preferences now and then which may or may not reflect the views of the President.

So it falls out that circulating among the Coolidge managers one hears mentioned most frequently the names of Senator Borah (Idaho) and Dr. Marion Le Roy Burton, president of the University of Michigan, as vice presidential possibilities.

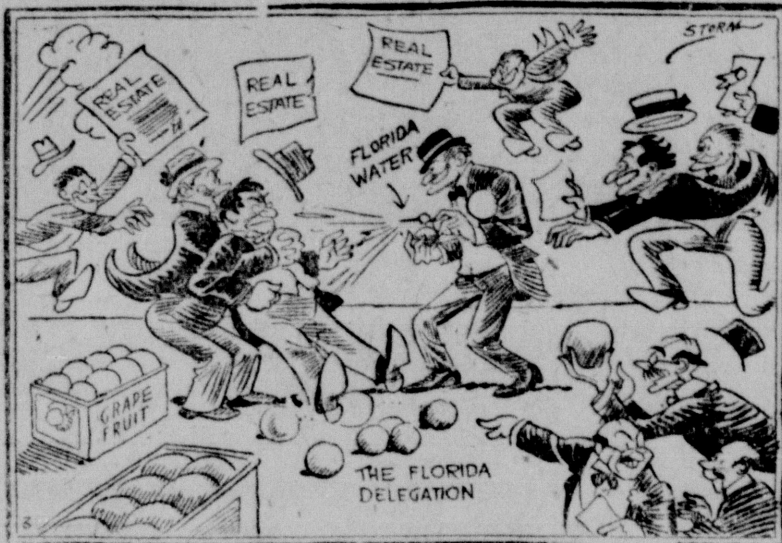

There seems to be no doubt that Borah has been strongly urged by the Coolidge managers and by the President himself to accept the second position on the ticket, but he has refused with no less finality than Mr. Lowden.

Refusal Absolute

The intelligence that Lowden had declined he would not serve, even if nominated, reached Cleveland about noon and created a sensation, despite the fact that it was confirmation of his frequently stated attitude. The Lowden boomers had talked each other into the firm conviction that he could be persuaded to accept, once he had been nominated.

Former Congressman John Dwight of New York got Lowden on the long distance telephone at Oregon, Ill., to urge his old friend to listen to reason.

WILL M. CRESSY at the REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

The convention soup thickens. Will Cressy is right on hand stirring it up. Here's the third yarn of his great political series for the Telegraph. Tomorrow's the opening day.

BY WILL M. CRESSY
Illustrated by George Storm

The delegates are arriving. They come in shoals, like fish, looking for bait.

You can classify every one of them. Because each one is in a class by himself. City Slickers, Village Leaders, Small Town Bosses, Rubes, Boobs, Saints and Sinners, Patriots and Crafters and just plain Perpetual Delinquents.

But they are a polite, gallant lot. Yesterday in a crowded street car there was a poor, tired, short dumpy little woman trying to connect with a strap way up above her head. She could not make it. And a long lank southerner got up, reached for the strap with his other hand, took her hand with his other hand, raised it in the strap, raised his big black hat—and resumed his seat.

One night John Royal gave them a free midnight show down at Keith's five-million dollar theater. And it cost him $200 to put the theater together again after they got through with it.

Another night they had a dance and one big Texas chap was telling his first, last and only partner what a hit she was with him.

"Why, dog-gone it, Sis, out of this whole herd of heifers you are the only one I could see. I never give another but Lowden informed him it was no use. He had, he said, just issued a public statement to the effect that he would not accept the nomination under any circumstances.

Sensation in the Lobbies

The word flew through the lobbies of the hotel and soon the bosses and sub-bosses were readjusting their calculations, or trying to as they milled around and buttonholed each other and whispered and confabulated generally regarding the crisis.

The newspaper correspondents immediately sought out Ralph Williams, Oregon national committeeman and chief custodian of the Lowden boom, by virtue of the fact that the Oregon delegation was instructed for Lowden by the result of the primary and intended to present the name of Lowden for the nomination.

"Of course, that ends it," said Mr. Williams.

The closest friends of Lowden here professed no surprise at the declaration emanating from Mississippi farm, Frank Lowden, as one of them put it, was not tempted by an offer to let him play second fiddle. He is of presidential caliber and knows that but for an unfortunate circumstance he would be president today.

Too Proud to Play Second

He is told now that by taking the vice presidential nomination he might become president through an election deadlock, but he is too proud to seek the presidency through the back door or the side door.

The unfortunate circumstance referred to was the ruction caused by the Lowden nomination campaign funds dispensed to Missouri delegates to the 1920 convention, which cost Lowden the nomination.

There is a garden in her face,
Where roses and white lilies blow;
A heavenly paradise is that place,
Wherein all pleasant fruits do grow.
There cherries grow that none may buy,
Till cherry-ripe themselves do cry.

Those cherries fairly do enclose
Of orient pearl a double row,
Which when her lovely laughter shows,
They look like rosebuds filled with snow;
Yet them no peer nor prince may buy,
Till cherry-ripe themselves do cry.

Her eyes like angels watch them still,
Her brows like bended bows do stand,
Threatening with piercing frowns to kill
All that approach with eye or hand
These sacred cherries to come nigh,
Till cherry-ripe themselves do cry.

HIT BEAUTY DISPLAYS
Atlantic City, N. GENERAL DELIVERY—Hal Cockran's DAILY POEM

At the postoffice window in any old town where strangers inquire for their mail, you always can tell, by a smile or a frown, whether hopes come as wanted, or fail.

A youth saunters up in a nervous-like way, and he's handed a letter from dad. It's one he's been waiting for many a day. There's a check. It's no wonder he's glad.

A little old lady breaks out into smile as her heart has occasion for fun. She stood in the line and she waited a while—then they gave her some mail from her son.

A girl in her teens who is flashy and fair will suddenly register frown. She asked for her mail but she found nothing there from a sweetheart in some other town.

And thus, at the General Delivery, all day, folks' spirits go up or go down. The ones who are always affected that way are the ones who are strangers in town.

DETROIT LADY TELLS FACTS IN HER CASE

"Indigestion Made Life Miserable; I was Nervous, Weak and Depressed—Tanlac Ended My Troubles."

"I simply wouldn't trade my good health for a fortune," recently asserted Mrs. Jennie Shirk, 1538 West Kirby St., Detroit, Mich., in speaking of what the Tanlac treatment has been worth to her.

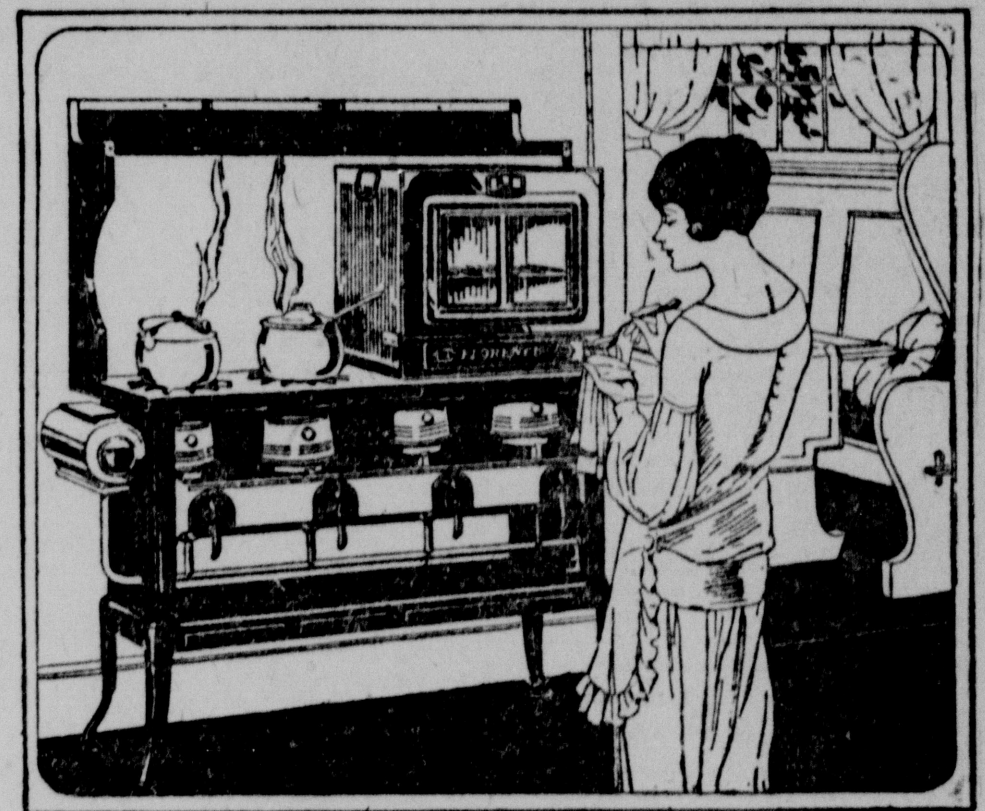

"About three years ago indigestion got such a firm hold on me that it made life miserable. My meals, although very light, were always followed by gas pains and heart palpitation, and I felt nervous, weak and depressed. My sleep was restless, my head and body achy and my energy had about all left me.

"Since Tanlac has ended my troubles and made me well and strong again I believe I am one of the happiest persons in the world. I now rejoice in a wonderful appetite, peaceful nerves, a fine complexion and splendid health. Tanlac has earned my lifelong praise."

There is no waiting for meals with a Florence Oil Range

Quick heat for cooking

WHEN you are rushed to get your meals promptly, you won't have to waste time fussing and fuming over a slow stove if you cook on a Florence Oil Range.

The Florence gives you intense heat for speedy cooking. Just touch a match to the Asbestos Kindler. In a few moments the kettle begins to sing and the pot to chuckle. You can roast, bake, boil and fry—in fact, you can cook anything on a Florence Range.

When you are not using the fire, merely turn it out. This means a cooler kitchen in warm weather, and it means economy. And, remember, there are no ashes or soot to dirty your kitchen; no shaking the fire to tire you; no drafts to baffle you.

The flame in a Florence Range is close up under the cooking, where the heat is not wasted. By turning a lever you can regulate the heat to any degree.

Does not burn from a wick

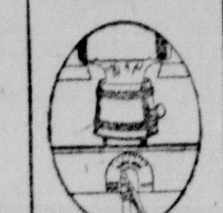

The vapor from kerosene is what burns. Kerosene is a cheap and plentiful fuel. The Florence flame is not a wick flame, such as you see in the ordinary oil lamp.

You will appreciate the special features of the Florence the moment you examine one at the store (department, furniture or hardware store).

The Florence Leveler enables you to set the range level on an uneven floor. Notice particularly the quality of the porcelain enamel and the sturdiness of the whole range. The Florence not only means a clean kitchen, but it adds beauty to any kitchen.

Florence Leveler Attached to each leg of the stove, this device enables you to set the stove level on an uneven floor.

The Big Burners The heat in the Florence burners is close up under the cooking where it is not wasted.

ALL LEADERS IN AMERICAN TASTE DEFEATS SUNDAY

While Giants and Cubs Continue Neck and Neck in Nat'l.

By the Associated Press.

Discontent among the bourgeoisie of the big leagues, evidenced by sporadic up risings of individual clubs, has assumed the proportions of full rebellion in the American circuit.

New York and Boston, tied for the leadership and Detroit one game behind, a triumvirate which has dominated the American circuit for several weeks with Washington, which recently joined the first division forces were yesterday defeated in a mass attack by the lower four.

St. Louis moved into fourth place as Washington dropped to fifth. The Browns defeated the world's champions for the second consecutive day won 5-0.

The White Sox were stronger than Red and fell upon three Boston pitchers for a 10-3 victory featured by daring base running and fielding of Arch-deacon who stole home. Thurston pitched well for Chicago.

Cleveland scored an equally decisive triumph over Washington 11-3. Clevelskis hurled steadily while his mates assaulted three Senator box-men. The Athletics got an early lead off Stener which Dennis Burns retained under a strong Tiger attack for a 1-5 victory.

In the National, the Giants maintained their one game lead over Chicago by defeating Pittsburgh 7-0 in a live inning contest as the Cubs beat Brooklyn 8-5 in 7 innings. Rain stopped both games.

Watson, Giant hurler, coming to bat with the bases full hit the first ball pitched for the only home run of his major league career. Ross Young contributed another homer with two on. Louie Mann, outfielder, has been purchased from Cincinnati by the Boston Nationals, with whom he saw service in 1923, 1914, 1919 and 1920.

Strong Team of Fair Swimmers in Olympic

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Briar Cliff Manor, N. Y., June 9.—America will be represented in the 1934 Olympic games by the strongest and most versatile squad of women swimmers ever to wear the stars and stripes in international competition. In the opinion of the leading swimming authorities following the announcement yesterday of the Olympic women's swimming team. The selections were based on the results of the final try-outs held Saturday and yesterday at the new outdoor swimming pool at Briar Cliff lodge.

Eighteen mermaids were selected on the first team and six alternates were named.

BANKER HIKING FROM SCRANTON TO DENVER, COLO.

Stopped in Dixon Enroute to Kiwanis' Int. Convention

A banker on a cross country jaunt from Scranton, Pa., to Denver, Colo., stopped in Dixon Friday night and continued on his way westward Saturday morning. The hiker is Harold E. Steer of the Lincoln Trust Company at Scranton, who is on his way to the International Kiwanis convention at Denver. He is not begging or selling souvenirs but is carrying out an idea original with him, in hiking to the International Kiwanis convention each year, this being his third trip. The banker declared that he is making a test of genuine American courtesy and thus far has found it to be most abundant.

"I left Scranton, Pa., Wednesday, May 28 at 1:30 p. m., following a send off by the Kiwanis club, absolutely broke in pocketbook but not in spirit or energy, and with self imposed restrictions: not to leg a ride, pay a fare or sell a souvenir," said the banker Saturday morning. "All expenses of my trip are defrayed through courtesies and any surplus of money received goes into the charity fund of the Scranton Kiwanis club. From Scranton to Dixon I have traveled a total of 1075 miles. I have been invited and have accepted 26 rides and have actually walked five and one-half miles. President Ray S. Kline and the Dixon Kiwanis club have treated me in a most courteous manner during my brief stay, and I have seen real American hospitality and courtesy in your city."

The tramp banker carries a complete radio set with him, which he uses several times daily, and left here Saturday morning, being taken to Clinton, Ia., by President Ray Kline of the local Kiwanis club.

FLOWERS TRAVEL

Ely, England—A red and green flower that may be seen to crawl along the ground for a distance of 16 feet, blooming for two weeks and turning to a pale yellow before it dies, has been grown by James Cutshaw, an Ely gardener. Moonlight is said to be particularly favorable to the growth of the flower.

Sterling Won Couple from Philippine Team

Ward Miller of Dixon, right fielder for the Sterling American Legion team, contributed two runs, two hits and three put outs in Sterling's 11 to 1 victory over the Famous Filipinos Sunday afternoon. It was an awful game, the visitors being outclassed by the Sterling bunch and being helpless before Woodhouse's curves. Sterling also defeated the Filipinos 2 to 0 in a five-inning game Saturday, rain compelling cessation of hostilities. Boston batted in both of Sterling's runs.

Mandell in Hardest Height of His Career

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Chicago, June 9.—Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill., will get the severest test of his career at East Chicago, Ind., tonight when he faces Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion. Likewise it will be a test for Dundee, because Mandell who recently outgrew the bantamweight division, is a fast, shifty boxer and a fairly heavy hitter. They are scheduled to box ten rounds at 134 pounds.

Seventy-five cents is the minimum price in the Telegraph, so if those wishing a card run would send the money with copy it would save all further annoyance.

Townley Experience

Times surely do change. This week in a speech at Sioux Falls, S. D., A. C. Townley, former president of the Non-partisan league, declared against the inadvisability of farmers establishing stores, mills and other businesses. Among other things, Mr. Townley said: "Experience has shown that farmers stores and other organizations have failed to reduce the price of commodities or conduct business on a better basis. You can't farm and run a business too and make it a success in competition with men especially trained for that work and with highly developed organizations already functioning."

Commenting on the above the Dickinson Press, leading paper on the Missouri Slope, says:

Has Mr. Townley bowed his knees to Wall Street and Big Business that he is just coming down to earth? It is not a far cry back to the days when Mr. Townley was traveling over North Dakota demanding that the farmers of the state who had espoused the league doctrines should subscribe to such enterprises. Influenced by his preachments the farmers hastened to pour thousands upon thousands of dollars into business ventures which have since been abandoned, declared bankrupt.

Wiser words than those quoted above never dropped from the lips of the one time leader. The man of the Peter Newhall, Augusta, Ga. goes to Alaska, after being told by Ivan Ishmin, Russian violinist, he had drowned Paul Sarichev, Ishmin's secretary, following a quarrel. Ishmin and Peter's wife, Dorothy, had urged him to flee to South America. He joins Rig Chris Larson in response to a distress signal at sea, forning his sea jacket upon him. Their launch hits rocks.

"Dorothy" receives word that her husband's body, identified by his sea jacket, has been buried in Alaska. She accepts Ishmin's attentions. But Peter has been rescued by another ship. Injuries completely change his appearance and he is known as Limelucia Pete. Larson's body occupies his grave.

Ishmin and Dorothy go to Alaska to bury the body of Paul Sarichev. Limelucia Pete, who is chosen as head guide, leads them to the grave. While digging, a storm comes, carrying their ship to sea.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Launch the boat quick, Pete," she said. "Maybe we can catch her yet."

He shook his head, soberly and respectfully. "You'd better get back under cover, Mrs. Newhall," he advised. "I would just mean to be lost if we tried to catch her. She probably had good reasons for going."

"But to leave us here, in this awful place—"

"She probably didn't have any other choice. I think likely her anchor chain broke. Her crew is heading for some shelter where she can lie at anchor—possibly clear to Port Helden. She'll lay up there till the storm is over, then come back for us. I'll make you comfortable; the best thing for you now is to keep dry till we can make camp."

"But how long before they'll be back?"

He looked straight into her wide, open, violet eyes. "That's a question, Mrs. Newhall. When these storms come up, no one knows when they are going to go away, but surely it won't be more than a few days at most. Fortunately we've got plenty of grub—a good part of my winter supply that will last the five of us nearly a month, with fresh meat. I've got my rifle here, so we won't starve. Perhaps they will be back tomorrow."

Pete himself was not an experienced camper, but he was a strong man, deft with his hands, and a few camping trips and deer-hunts in the last year had taught him the rudiments of woodcraft. He selected for their camp the first alder thicket adjacent to the boat, which happened to be on an easy slope, immediately above and less than fifty yards back from the grave on the beach. A small stream flowed past their camp and down to the sea, providing plenty of pure water; and the grass of its bank was deep and rich. A space was cleared in the center with the axe, and here, in a place of comparative shelter from the wind, he spread his own light, compact, waterproof tent. Here, on the soft moss under the canvas, he spread the girl's sleeping robe. "Duck for it quick," he told Dorothy, as he wrapped his own great slicker coat about her.

Ivan turned as if he would resent even this shadow of familiarity, but what he saw on the girl's face silenced him. Dorothy had evidently not taken offense. Presently, her hand in his, they were racing to shelter across the tundra toward the shelter of Pete's tent.

One of the natives dug up the roots of a certain dwarf willow that grew beside the creek, and here he found dry kindling that soon developed a cheery fire. Pete's own camp stove soon had the tent thoroughly warm and dry.

The situation looked a little better to Dorothy by now, but it was still a doleful prospect. The tent was for one person only; she could not

"Dorothy," he asked suddenly, "Does this land take hold of you?" She waited an instant, half-dreaming, before she attempted to reply. "It gets my imagination, some way," she confessed at last. "It has given me the queerest moods, the strangest thoughts—all day long. How does it affect you?"

He moved nearer, groping for her hand. He caught it at last, and his throbbing with the fierce pulse of his arteries. "Do you want to know how it affects me? It just seems to peel me down—to strip off a veneer of civilization that I've picked up somewhere and just leave the basic part of me. That part of me is something that you yet don't fully know—and I'm some way afraid to have you fully know it." His voice was subdued, and he spoke with evident difficulty. "Tonight I'm the man of the Ural Mountains. The Occident falls away—and leaves only Asia."

A dim fear trickled through her, a sense of estrangement and at the same time of deep fascination; and she struggled to regain her poise and self-confidence. "Yet this isn't Asia," she said.

"I don't know. It's so far west that it is almost east. It's like my own Siberia. Dorothy, did you notice Pavlov's attitude toward me?"

"No. Not particularly."

"It's like a slave for his master. I am not boasting, Dorothy. That man has enough echo of Asia in him to see Asia in me, and he bows before it. But I haven't anything on earth in common with that big guide, Pete. You, on the other hand, seem to get along well with him. You instinctively like him."

"The East is East and the West is West," she quoted thoughtfully.

"That's it. Your Pete is an Anglo-Saxon—the most dominant of all Western peoples. I am a Russian—strictly speaking, I am a Mongol, and Oriental blood has slanted my eyes. There's no use of trying to hide that fact from you, even if I were not proud of it. Pete and I could never understand each other; we'd fight and kill each other in a minute if the galleons and several other things didn't drop a shadow between."

"Yet—I am an Anglo-Saxon," she told him.

"Yes." He hesitated. "But also you are a woman. We men of the East do not look on women as we look on men. I don't love you for what you racially are. Racial differences don't have to interfere in a love like ours—in a marriage such as ours would be, that would move like a dream—in a garden."

He took his violin from its case and held it a while, lovingly, in his white hands. He began to play for her, softly.

The composition he chose was one that she had never heard before; a wild, haunting thing in the minor that she guessed was a folk melody of his own Ural. He was not playing to her, tonight. He was simply seeking expression of his own unfathomable, Oriental soul. As always his technique was flawless; yet tonight he played with a fire and an ardor she had never heard in him before.

Ivan played on and caught the soul of this North in the wild, plaintive tones. The music mingled with the sound of the storm, the rain lashing the tent, the long shriek of the wind, the beat of the waves on the shore.

 local, or Illinois standpoint.
Friendly to Small
 Emerson was renominated without opposition for a third term. He was close to Lowden during the war governor's regime, in fact was over-seer of Lowden's presidential campaign in 1920. Emerson has done nothing to displease Gov. Len Small or any allies of the present state administration. He has even been classed as friendly to Small.
 While it is not argued specially that Emerson, as a candidate for vice president, would add greater strength to the ticket in Illinois than he would as the nominee for secretary of State, Gov. Small played practical politics yesterday in encouraging the Emerson talk.
 The new Republican state committee, headed by Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, could fill the vacancy on the state ticket caused by Emerson's nomination. Mr. Small was quick to grasp the possibilities.
Candidates Meet at Lunch
 With the exception of ex-Gov. Chas. S. Deneen, nominee for United States senator, and O. N. Custer, G. O. P. candidate for state treasurer, the entire Republican state ticket lunched together at the Hamilton club yesterday.

EMMERSON FOR SECOND PLACE, ILLINOIS' AIM

Lowden's Refusal Gives Strength to Sec. of State's Candidacy

Illinois' delegation to the Republican national convention, insistent until Sunday on leading the hurrah for the "draft" of ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden as vice presidential nominee, left for the Ohio city last night mulling over the one remaining question before the convention: "Who will be named as Coolidge's running mate?" But some of the Illinois delegation, at least will not be without a "favorite son." No sooner had positive information of Lowden's refusal percolated through the ranks than a group of G. O. P. hip hurrah boys at the Hamilton club had started a boom for Secretary of State Louis L. Emerson for second place on the ticket.

Sincerity in Boom
 And there was a note of keen sincerity in the Emerson boom. It was started in full consideration of the Republican situation in Illinois. In the first place Emerson was presented as a logical offering from a pivotal western state. The nomination will go to the west or the Mississippi valley as a matter of practical politics.
 "Why not Illinois and why not Emerson?" asked the secretary of state's friends.
 But there is their slant from a more

BACKYARD PLAYGROUNDS Play Basket Ball at Home

This is the ninth of a series of 10 articles on the construction and use of playground equipment adapted to the backyard.
BY W. C. BATCHELOR
 The construction of a basketball court will be found of great value in keeping a boy or girl of 12 to 15 years at home.
 An area at least 25 by 50 feet is essential for a boy's and girl's court, but where this amount of space is not available either in the back yard or an adjoining vacant lot, a single goal may be erected.
 One goal allows all the possibilities of practice, and a game may even be played with both teams "shooting" for the same basket.
 The goal consists of an iron ring 18 inches in diameter, supported by brackets, so that the inner edge is 6 inches from the back board, which may be any flat surface—the side of the garage or house. A regulation goal may be purchased from any sporting dealer for 3 or more.
 If no flat surface is available, a back board, 4 feet high and 6 feet wide, may be attached to a post or tree.
 Material for back board:
 Four pieces, 2 inches by 4 inches by 4 feet.
 Sixteen pieces of pine flooring, 1 inch by 4 inches by 6 feet.
 Two pounds No. 8 casing nails.
 Cost approximately $2.70.
 Goal post 1 piece, 4 inches by 6 inches by 16 feet.
 (Additional cost, $1.75.)
 The lower edge of the back board should be 9 feet from the ground and the edge of goal or basket, 10 feet from the ground. A space within a radius of at least 15 feet from the goal should be free from obstructions. A basketball may be bought for $4 to $15.

Not Room Enough for the Motor Cars

By Associated Press Leased Wire
 Cleveland, O., June 9.—Cleveland invited the world to its republican national convention but overlooked the possibility of most every one bringing his motor car.
 Swarms of cars arriving today served notice that parking space for 4000 machines along the lake front will be insufficient.

Total exports of all meats in the year ended June 30, 1923, amounted to 918,694,954 pounds, valued at $143,291,899.

"Corridor Dogs" are Epidemic in Cleveland

By Associated Press Leased Wire
 Cleveland, O., June 9.—They call it "trench feet" in France, here in Cleveland it's "corridor dogs." It's an epidemic at all national political conventions and is the common lot of the garden variety of delegates and alternates and of all reporters. It comes from hours of standing around on hard stone floors trying to find out what's going on.

It is estimated that people wear away two inches of shoe leather in a year.

Measure Gasoline Cost by Service

MEASURE the value of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) gasoline service by the year—by each individual purchase—or by the life of your motor.

When you have considered all the factors involved, you will admit that for dependability and convenience this service is unequalled by that rendered by any other organization, producing commodities entering into your daily life.

Dependability is the essence of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service. You may buy the products of this Company with the complete assurance that they are of uniformly high standard of quality no matter where or when you get them.

For convenience, Standard Oil Company (Indiana) gasoline service is conceded to be superior. Its trim, efficient, fully-stocked stations meet the motorist at every turn on highways and byways.

The scope of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service is broad and comprehensive. Manufacturers of motor cars, trucks and tractors find this service convenient and dependable, and most of the large plants in the ten states served by this Company find it profitable to utilize the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as a source of supply.

The service is of varying types—from tank car deliveries to factories, tank wagon deliveries to farmers, and others having storage facilities, to small deliveries at service stations—all are made with infinite care and extreme efficiency.

The reliability of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service and the high quality of its products is admitted by all. They lengthen the life of your motor—lower your operating cost—minimize your repairs—and increase your pleasure in driving.

No matter where you may be, every service station attendant, every salesman, or other employee of the Company with whom you may come in contact, will regard it as a privilege to be permitted to serve you.

Service of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) recognizes no obstacles and admits of no delay—it is where you want it, when you need it, and as you can best use it.

ADVICE TO THE JUNE GRADUATE

BY JAMES SIMPSON
 PRESIDENT MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

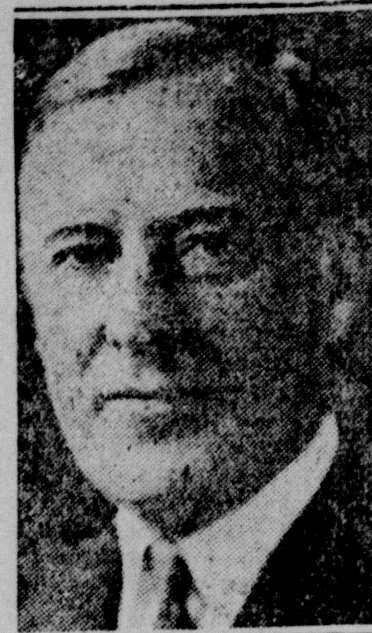

Merchandising, Never Idle, Holds Out Promise of Successful Careers.

In a large and varied business there is no single procedure with regard to employment and promotion. No prescribed previous education or training is required.

We train our young people "on the job." Our entrants have grammar school to university education. Other things being equal, high school or college training is desirable, but honesty, loyalty, common sense, willingness to work and ambition to achieve worthy results are fundamental personal characteristics.

As manufacturers, importers, wholesalers and retailers, the activities of our company cover many states and foreign countries. Every endeavor is made to place employees where their qualifications and preference best fit them, and to shift and promote them as their knowledge of the business and general conditions make possible. In addition to the usual clerical, office, advertising and manufacturing lines of work, the merchandise end of our business provides many openings for ambitious and capable young people.

In the wholesale establishment they ordinarily start learning to route orders, keep stock and fill orders before going on to floor, city and road selling, and to buying or departmental management. In our retail store selling positions are more immediately available, and for both young men and women.

The field is thus wide and opportunities many for those who have the ability and the will to succeed.

Nearly all of our important men started near the bottom. The way is open and kept open clear to the top.

Merchandising is a field for service and achievement. It goes right on functioning in good times and bad. It grows as population and the standard of living grows and, therefore, offers steady, useful and successful careers.

Supplying goods of any kinds, from widely different sources and sold under varying conditions, merchandising offers ample scope for individual ambition and talent, and call for the best motives in human character.
